Sir,

My husband who was Taluk Shirastadar of Hosadurga died on the 11th Dec. 1914, of malarial fever. He borrowed in June 19 Rs. 1000 from The Mysore Bank for the marriage of our Second daughter. The instalments of Rs 4 were being regularly paid. The dues yet to be paid are Rs 779-8.
As I could not pay this after the occurrence of this calamity and as I believed that the Govt. in memory would be paid to the Est.
I applied to the Mysore Bank to give me 3 months' time to pay

~~the~~ amount. My family gone it. Now I am told I must produce heirship certificate. The bank has to be paid at once and I have no other way of paying it. Applying for heirship certificate means additional delay and additional expenditure which I am not in a position to incur. So if the Government may consider this as a special case and waive the production of the heirship certificate, I shall be ever grateful for this kindness shown to me, a helpless widow and my two minor sons. Circumstances, I beg that you will be pleased to order payment of the insurance amount to my sons Bank passing production of heirship certificate on the security given by my late husband's uncle Mr. G. Sankaranarayanan, Superintendent of Industries Bangalore.
